

For everyday currents in home electronics and wires, which answer is the order of magnitude of the drift velocity (i.e. average velocity) of the electrons in the wire?

- A. more than km/s
- B. m/s
- C. mm/s
- D. $\mu\text{m/s}$
- E. nm/s

B and D are also reasonable, depending on what assumptions you make